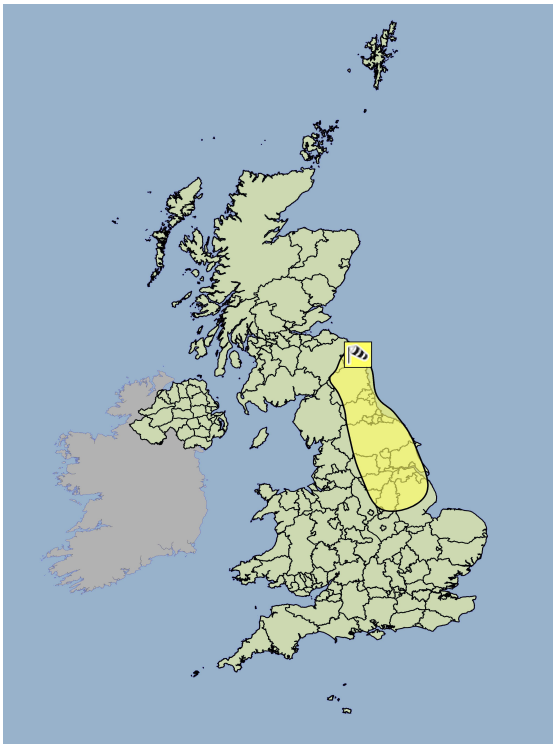
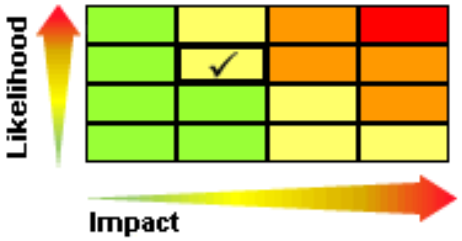
National Severe Weather Warning Service





Chief Forecasters Assessment
An area of low pressure near Iceland will bring strengthening winds to many areas. Winds are likely to be particularly gusty from Sunday, continuing into much of Monday. Given the potential for very strong gusts to the lee of high ground as well as over hills, travelling conditions may be difficult.

The Met Office have issued a Yellow Alert of Wind

Valid from 15:00 on Sun, 21st Dec 2014 until 12:00 on Mon, 22nd Dec 2014

Gales are expected to affect parts of eastern England at times during Sunday and Monday. Gusts between 55 and 65 mph seem likely to the east of hills, and in excess of 70 mph over hill tops.

The public should be aware of the possibility of minor disruption, in particular to road travel.
